

What To Do If I Have a Grievance

One of Qsource ESRD Networks' jobs is to help if you have a complaint (grievance) about the care you get at a dialysis or transplant center. Patients, patient advocates and family members can call the Network anytime, for any reason, about the care given at a Medicare-certified clinic and/or concerns about access to dialysis care.

What is a grievance?

grievance: | 'grē-vən(t)s | noun

1. a strong feeling that you have been treated unfairly [objection, injustice, ax-to-grind, beef, hardship, injury]

- Who: Anyone (patient, family member or patient advocate)
- What: Anything (nothing is too small)
- When: Any time (sooner the better)
- Where: At dialysis or transplant center
- Why: To make things better for all patients

Medicare defines a grievance as: "A written or oral communication from an end-stage renal disease (ESRD) patient, and/or an individual representing an ESRD patient, and/or another party, alleging that an ESRD service received from a Medicare-certified provider did not meet the grievant's expectations with respect to safety, civility, patient rights, and/or clinical standards of care."

All dialysis patients have a right to file a grievance about their care with the clinic, the Network and/or the State Survey Agency and should feel safe when doing so.

How can I deal with my concerns?

You can call the Network at ANY TIME. You do not have to talk to the clinic first. Here are a few other suggestions:

Stay calm. Do not get angry. Get information instead.

Talk it out. Tell a staff member you trust about your concerns.

Write it out. It may help to focus on what is most important to you by writing down your thoughts.

Ask. If you are not getting an answer to your concerns, talk to the next person in the clinic's grievance process.

You have the right to be anonymous. The Network may still be able to help with your grievance even if you do not want the clinic or the Network to know your name.
